If you make your goals general you will be discouraged and never reach them.

With your action steps, write the specific steps you need to take to reach your goals.

You may even have action steps for your action steps. Basically, you need to break your goals down into the different parts of achieving them.

Obviously you need to do x before you can do y, and y before z... so chart it out. It makes monitoring it and achieving it much simpler.

Also, you have little successes along the way and will stay on task better. Here is an example below.

Write your top three goals (specific) in the corresponding spaces above.
These goals are the ones that you will focus on reaching.

Be careful not to use general goals such as, "I want to make $100k next year."
If you want to make $100k next year, how do you want to do it?

If you want to make $100k next year by wholesaling real estate than put that.
